This course will cover the basics of intuitive defensive shooting, Combat Accuracy, The Balance of Speed & Precision, an introduction to the understanding the Body's Natural Reactions during a Dynamic Critical Incident, understanding the integration of lateral motion and additional concepts as time allows.

This Course will provide the student with an understanding of true Counter Ambush training with a defensive firearm, base level defensive shooting skills and a training methodology for continuing to develop those skills.

Students will fire between 400-500 rounds.

INSTRUCTOR BIO:

Rob Pincus is a professional trainer, author and consultant. He and his staff at I.C.E. Training Company provide services to military, law enforcement, private security and students interested in self-defense. Rob is the Developer of the Combat Focus® Shooting program, the most efficient defensive firearms training methodology available today.

Rob provides efficient training methodologies to those interested in developing firearms, tactical operations and defensive skills. These methods stress gaining maximum value from limited training resources and working well with what the body does naturally under real world conditions.

Rob has experience as a law enforcement officer and executive protection agent and was also commissioned as an officer in the United States Army Reserve after graduating from the Military College of Vermont with a degree in Political Science. Rob serves the San Miguel County Sheriff's Office as a Training Officer and has been a staff writer with S.W.A.T. Magazine since 2001.

From 2003 through 2007, Rob was the Director of The Valhalla Training Center in Montrose, Colorado. Rob developed the training doctrines and programs that brought Valhalla to the attention of the entire shooting industry as a leading source of reality based firearms training. During this time, Valhalla was identified by the Rand Corporation as a leader in private sector reality based training and as a sole source provider to 10th Group Army Special Forces for Extreme Close Quarters Counter Ambush training. Rob was awarded the Range of the Year award by the National Association of Shooting Ranges for 2007.

In Late 2007, Rob launched I.C.E. Training Company and began traveling and teaching around the country and the world. Rob is one of the busiest instructors in the industry, conducting well over 50 courses a year in over 40 locations. He travels over 300 days a year, bringing cutting edge personal defense information to students ranging from military and law enforcement special operations personnel to those who are just considering their first defensive firearm. In 2005, Rob began production of the Personal Defense Firearms DVD Series which evolved to include the Personal Defense Network online resource for training information. To date, the DVD series has shipped over 4 Million copies and consists of over 75 titles. There is no other series of defensive training video series that even comes close to this level of distribution. In addition to his print, video and in-person teaching, Rob has been involved in the production of several TV shows including Personal Defense TV, Best Defense, Stop The Threat, World News Tonight, The Daily Show, Best Defense: Survival, Weaponology, Trigger Time and dozens of local and regional news pieces covering training and firearms rights & responsibilities topics.”

Rob and his I.C.E. team are also regularly sought out as a Team Building and Leadership Development consultants by business leaders and multi-national corporations and conduct programs involving firearm familiarization and other unique experiences.

Recently, Rob has focused on program and instructor development. Instructors groups that have sought out Rob’s expertise and integrated components of his programs include the Chicago Police Department FTU, South Wales Police Department Training Unit (UK), NSW SEAL Qualification Training, Bavarian Polizei (DE), Orange County (FL) Sheriff’s Office and 19th Group Army Special Forces. Rob also conducts an annual conference for certified Combat Focus Shooting Instructors and is one of the founders of the Association of Defensive Shooting Instructors.

Rob provides efficient training methodologies to those interested in developing firearms, tactical operations and defensive skills.

M4 OPERATOR

Jeffery Wilson

Ryan Meeks

Tactical Weapons Training Group

Held At:

TBA

This course will teach the basic principles related to the M4 weapon system. We will start with Confirming Zeros and why we do that every time we train. Warm up drills will capture the level of training associated to the group and will continue thru the morning hours. After we break for lunch, we will work on movement and approaching barricades with team members, transitioning into malfunctions and becoming intimate with your weapon system so you will effectively know by sound and feel what the rifle is doing.

STUDENT REQUIREMENTS:

350 rounds rifle, 150 rounds pistol, eyes and ears, tactical vest or personal body armor recommended, BDU style clothing.

INSTRUCTOR BIO:

Jeff started his career in 1992 and has been blessed to have worked with local/state and federal level SRT Teams and individuals. He holds a Federal Instructor Certification in weapon systems from small arms to heavy machine guns as well as Precision Rifle/designated Marksmen/Sniper. He and his associates at Tactical Weapons Training Group have worked with and trained teams from around the country as well as very high profile executive protection teams. His group has also trained overseas operations engineers for nuclear facilities.

Ryan Meeks brings over 14 years of real world operational, instructional and tactical experience.

Ryan attended Bethany College (Bethany, WV) and obtained a Bachelor Degree in Biology. After college Ryan enlisted in the United States Army as a forward observer and later changed his military occupation specialty to become a military police officer. He deployed to Iraq from 2003 to 2005. While overseas Ryan was recruited for the US Department of State.

After his honorable military service he continued his career with the US Department of State, among companies DynCorp and Blackwater, under the diplomatic protection program. Ryan became an experienced leader while implementing standard operational procedures for protection and assuming command as a shift leader, agent in charge and tactical commander. He provided close-in protection, safe guard and transported single or multiple principal(s) while personnel conducted diplomatic business in Iraq from 2005 to 2007. His duties also included route reconnaissance, route surveys, venue security, and gathering intelligence from agencies for plausible threats.

Ryan is extremely knowledgeable and experienced in executive protection. He is employed with a fortune 500 Company as a senior executive protection specialist and has provided global security for over a decade. Not only has he planned and managed protection details in high profile venues worldwide, he leads them. Ryan has gained extensive insight by working directly with US Government Officials, Foreign Government Diplomats, CEO's and celebrities.

In protection, firearms awareness is held in the highest regard. Therefore, Ryan makes firearms training a priority by assuming an additional assignment with his company as their detail firearms instructor. He also became a commissioned police officer for the Pickerington Police Department (Pickerington, Ohio) and is actively involved in K9 search and rescue.

Ryan's primary focus remains to be executive protection, with a secondary focal point on training and instructing. He is a member of the Ohio Tactical Officers Association and obtained instructor certifications in several courses with Advance Weapons International Training and Ohio Police Officers Training Academy.

Brian Hoffner

Hoffner's Academy

Held At:

TBA

Brian Hoffner's modern SoSu techniques provide a faster, more controlled, accurate and efficient combat operation of the pistol while reducing liability caused by traditional methods that can conflict with safety rules. Knife skills are combined with pistol skills to further ensure the safety of law enforcement Officers in a CQB deadly force confrontation.

The pistol and the pocket knife are the two items carried on a daily basis by police officers. This training will teach the officer how to use them together effectively in a system that increases officer safety while reducing liability for the department, as well as the officer. Those attending will learn using the Hoffner Folding Knife Trainer. The Hoffner Folding Knife provides less lethal tool options to the officer as well as lethal force capability. These options will be practiced while officers learn to effectively defend self against a CQB deadly force attack.

STUDENT REQUIREMENTS:

Duty pistol, 3 magazines, standard duty gear, ear and eye protection, 250 rounds ammunition, Hoffner Training Knives are provided for use during the class, bring eye and groin protection if available. Optional: Training Blue or Red gun.

PISTOL MARKSMANSHIP FOR LIFE

David Borresen - Guidepost Inc.

Held At:

TBA

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The intended audience for this course are shooters with prior knowledge of the fundamentals of pistol marksmanship and strong weapons handling skills. Although students will be taught the proper fundamentals, this course will quickly progress towards adding stressors to test and evaluate one's speed and accuracy in an attempt to prepare one for a firearms engagement. Once students have a grasp of shooting stagnant, shooting on the move and under an elevated heartrate, students will compete against themselves as well as classmates pushing each other in a safe and competitive environment. This course will be competitive, physical and students will learn not only how to shoot under different stressors but also how to take these lessons learned and apply them to life, their own training and that of their team or agency. This course is for someone that wants to train hard and add an athletic approach to their training.

FORMAT:

Flat range, lecture, and discussion, physically demanding courses of fire (be prepared to shoot a full day adding kit along the way)

PREREQUISITES:

Firm grasp of the fundamentals of pistol marksmanship, an open mind, good attitude, "thick skin", willingness to have fun and encourage others to be competitive

EQUIPMENT NEEDED:

Pistol, holster 3-4 pistol magazines, mag holders, 500 rounds of pistol ammunition, eye protection, ear protection, kit and helmet you work in, gloves

RECOMMENDED:

Hat, weather appropriate clothing, drinks, back up parts for weapons, oil/weapons lube, cleaning kit

INSTRUCTOR BIO:

David is a former military service member who shifted his efforts to Law Enforcement in 2000 where he spent years as a full time SWAT Officer before becoming an Undercover Agent working on the clandestine and surveillance side of the tactical spectrum. David further spent several years working in support of the US Government with multiple deployments to Iraq and Afghanistan as recent as 2014 keeping his skills sharp.

David has taught thousands of Military Service members and Law Enforcement Professionals since 2010 and continues to find passion on the range with students. David started Guidepost Inc. after leading a team of instructors at one of America's top tier training companies taking what he learned and later implemented in his own training and that of his courses.

David graduated from the Campbell University with a B.S. in Social Science with concentration in Criminal Justice. David is currently a sworn Law Enforcement Officer in North Carolina and an avid shooting competitor.

PISTOL/RIFLE TRANSITION DEPLOYMENT

Pete Milionis

Held At:
TBA

This course is focused on the varying methods of the standard transition or cover drill from long gun to pistol. We will break down the different techniques utilized and discuss each in detail. Case studies of incidents will be covered as well.

The course will also integrate transitioning the pistol/long gun to the support side and engaging targets from non standard shooting positions. Techniques will be shown to reduce the time it takes to get into positions resulting in faster shots on target and reducing the time of exposure to the threat.

EQUIPMENT REQUIRED:

Ammunition:

- Pistol 300 rds. Rifle 250 rds.
- Call out gear / body armor is optional but recommended
- Rifle with sling
- Pistol with holster
- 3 magazines for each
- Magazine pouches or chest rig
- Wrap around ballistic eye protection
- Ear protection

- Knee and elbow pads strongly recommended
- Gloves

RMR REFLEX PISTOL OPTIC

Frank Martello

Trijicon

Held At:
TBA

The use of Reflex Sights, commonly referred to as "red dot" sights is not a new phenomenon to the shooting community. The use of these sights on rifles, shotguns and handguns by hunters and competitive shooters began to gain traction in the 1980's and has slowly but consistently grown in popularity among this niche group of competitors to this day. Their primary benefit, regardless of weapon system, is this; a reflex sight, by superimposing a distinct parallax compensated aiming point on the target as it appears in the shooter's field of view greatly simplifies the shooting equation by only requiring the shooter to focus on a single plane of reference. Now the shooter can focus on the threat/target without continually re-referencing the front and rear sights thus eliminating the phenomenon commonly referred to as "eye sprint" where the shooter's focus is continually shifting from the target to the front sight. It also plays to the human brain's instinctive reactions to focus on the threat when under stress. The bottom line is with a reflex sight, "if you got the dot, you got the shot." Frank has Glock19/22, Sig 229 and Smith and Wesson M&P.

REQUIRED EQUIPMENT:

300 rds of ammo (either 9mm or 40 cal), eye and ear protection... Trijicon will be supplying the sidearm and the holster/ magazine pouches.

INSTRUCTOR BIO:

First Sergeant Frank Martello joined the Stafford County Sheriff's Office in 1993 after completing 24 years of service as a Marine Corps infantry officer. He served in the patrol division from 1993 to 2008 as a patrol deputy, Sergeant and First Sergeant prior to assuming duties as the agency First Sergeant of Training. His collateral duties included SWAT team operator/sniper, DCJS and NRA law enforcement firearms instructor, department Range Master, Use of Force instructor and Defensive Tactics instructor.

Martello holds an undergraduate degree in Business Management from Saint John's University, New York, and has contributed to several military and police professional periodicals.

TACTICAL LESSONS LEARNED

Robert Trivino

Evergreen Mountain LLC

Held At:

TBA

CLASS DESCRIPTION:

In this block of instruction, Rob Trivino will discuss and share his most significant lessons learned during combat operations in Iraq combating terrorists. These lessons learned will encompass the entire spectrum of operations to include mission planning, movement to the targeted area, actions on target (specifically tactics used), and post assault procedures. The vast majority of these lessons learned can be applied to, and integrated with the law enforcement community's response to critical incidents. The purpose of this curriculum is to inform and expand the knowledge base with the hope that these lessons shared will one day save the lives of the first responders protecting those they serve. The second part of the session is a practical application of tactics. The tactics taught are principle-based, NOT technique based, which allows the officer to operate with less mental "technique" clutter. This approach and methodology provides the officer with a greater mental flexibility in applying the tactics in a variety of settings. Rob will also discuss the assault philosophy at it relates to assaulting a fixed structure in order apprehend or arrest a suspect, hostage rescue, and active threats. Subjects covered include: team sized tactics, movement to breach, room clearing, hallway movement, and stairwells.

INSTRUCTOR BIO:

Robert Trivino is retired from a long career in the United States Army. During his time on active duty he was assigned to several units; he spent the majority of his time in service assigned as an operational member of a United States Army Special Missions Unit under the United States Army Special Operations Command. Rob has extensive peacetime and wartime leadership and tactical experience, leading small teams and larger maneuver elements in combat at the ground tactical level. He has deployed on multiple combat missions to the Balkans, Afghanistan, and Iraq and has served as a Sniper Team Leader, Operations Sergeant Major, and both Assault and Sniper Element Sergeants Major. In his final assignment, Rob served as a senior enlisted advisor for a multi-service organization supporting the special operations community. Rob's awards and decorations include the Silver Star, the Legion of Merit, 5 Bronze Stars (2 for Valor), and the Defense Meritorious Service Medal. In January of 2012 Rob created Evergreen Mountain, LLC, offering specialized training in various aspects of conflict and leadership. He recently wrote and published A Warrior's Path - Lessons In Leadership, a book about leadership lessons learned throughout his life and career.
